

Flight Training at Aviation Sales

Aviation Sales, Inc. offers flight and ground instruction for beginners to the most experienced pilots in our airplanes or yours. Aviation Sales has been teaching people to fly since 1958.

Aviation Sales' flight training is recognized by the Federal Aviation Administration under Federal Aviation Regulation Part 61. You can be assured of having the highest quality instruction at every level of your training.

Imagine being in the command seat of a Cessna trainer. This could be you!

Aviation Sales' instructors are full time professional instructors. All our instructors are graduates of a four year aviation program. Your instructor will have hundreds of hours of experience teaching basic and advanced flight training. We hire only the best instructors to teach the best students...namely you!

At Aviation Sales you will train in the safest, cleanest airplanes available. Our fleet of 10 Cessna training aircraft are maintained to the highest standards by our own in-house Cessna Service Center. These airplanes are available for rental after you have earned your certificate. We will also train you in your own airplane, if you desire.

Aviation Sales is a one-stop flight training facility. With an in-house CATS computer testing facility and an FAA Designated Examiner in the building, the only time you have to leave the building is to fly.

We offer the following flight training programs. Please click for more information:

Introductory Flights

Take an introductory flight on any of our airplanes, typically lasting about a half hour. You will get a guided tour of the airplane and its controls, before taking off for a short flight around the airport and surrounding areas. You will have the opportunity to fly the airplane yourself, under the watchful eye of one of our experienced flight instructors. We also offer introductory aerobatic flights.

Ongoing Training

Aviation Sales Inc., also offers ongoing flight training for higher level ratings: Commercial Pilot, CFI, and CFII,. We also perform flight reviews, instrument proficiency checks, FAA Wings program training, whether in our airplanes or yours. Please contact us for details.
